"There's Music in the Air"

1824464

On these pages are shown glimpses of North Side's imposing facade. To the frightened freshmen these columns are portentous and forboding. After four years of study and play, a senior pictures them as stately and symbolic of the symphony of youth. No matter from which angle a true Redskin views the majestic Ionic columns that guard tepeeland's entrance, the impression is engraven on his heart.

Unique in its location on the banks of the St. Joe, the "Big Dome" gains in picturesqueness from the ever changing tempo of the river's flow.

Harken! Harken! Music Sounds Afar!

"There's Music in the Air." We hear it on all sides in the constant rhythm of North Side's many activities. It may be heard in each deliberately worked out play in football or in the quickened tempo of passing from class to class. It may swell from those unforgettable noontime activities, reaching a high note in spring. In many cases the week-end date with the right person or sensational scoring play in basketball strikes an unforgettable chord. It may buzz with the friendliness of Get-Acquainted Day or drag with the weariness of an exam-cramming student at 1 o'clock in the morning. It may echo the basic theme of daily lessons or the good time and hard work of extra-curricular activities, which contain variations of a similar theme. It may ring with memories of the Senior Banquet, the Senior Play, the Prom, Commencement, or Senior Day. It may sparkle with the after-game dance or hit a minor key with the hopes and fears of all on report card day and on Back-To-School Night. At Christmas time it may deviate from the basic meaning of the long school year and sparkle with the cheerfulness of the parties and varied, holiday, social activities. It may be a music of loud notes or soft ones, harsh or harmonious. It is an ever-changing, ever-blending pattern of sound creating that greatest of modern symphonies . . . public education in a free land.

Hail, Hail

For the past twenty-one years the leadership of the tepee by the St. Joe has been carried on by Milton H. Northrop, principal. During his many years as big chief of the Redskins, "Pop", as he is known to his many friends, has made North Side a better and finer place for all.

"Pop" can be found in his office at all times ready with a smile or a kind word of advice. Though his task is a great one and his responsibilities many and varied, "Pop" always finds time for everyone, from the world-weary senior to the timid green freshie.

Fort Wayne's public school system for the past seventeen years has been under the direction of Merle J. Abbott, superintendent. Through Mr. Abbott's conscientious efforts the teachers and schools of our city are excellent.

Mr. Abbott was recently appointed for another four year term, thus we may look to new and better improvements in the city's educational system.

The office of the superintendent is always open to interested boys and girls seeking advice. As Mr. Abbott has stated, "The future belongs to the youth of today"; thus he has tried to make our school system a better one for students and teachers alike.

to the Chiefs

A better relationship between parents and teachers is the primary aim of the tepee's Parent-Teacher Association.

This group, founded in 1928, is headed this year by Mrs. George McDowell, president. At left, seated, are Mrs. Frank Murphy, secretary, and Mrs. McDowell. Standing are Mrs. Froncie Gutman, vice-president; Mr. Harry Young, second vice-president; and Mrs. Fred Stellhorn, treasurer.

The Parent-Teacher group has supported youth recreation centers, established a scholarship fund, sponsored a popular "bobby sox hop", and taken part in other worthwhile activities. As a whole this organization, through tireless efforts, has greatly strengthened the high ideals representative of North Side and the opportunities offered by the school.

Head squaw under the big dome is Miss Victoria Gross, dean of girls. With her bright smile and kindly manner, Miss Gross has for the past eighteen years headed all guidance work and programs for the student body. She also has supervision over all school clubs, classes, and acts as a special adviser to the Student Council.

The dean is always willing to listen to the troubles and solve the problems of the tepee's papooses. Yes, many futures are planned and difficult decisions rendered within the dean's office.

In carrying out all these duties Miss Gross proves herself to be a "true Redskin."

Drawing is one of the first ways of man's self expression. Expressing one's thoughts and emotions in an artistic way is the goal of the art department.

Under the expert guidance of Miss Gertrude Zook and Miss Bernice Sinclair, students are taught to appreciate the fine works of ancient as well as modern artists. Student talent is guided, encouraged, and polished in various fields throughout the eight semesters of art which are offered.

The art students and the instructors generously give their time and effort to the other departments, clubs, and classes.

With the common man realizing more and more the need for beauty around him, the artist's opportunities are multiplying. North Side is sending her students into the art world well-prepared to compete with all. These students reflect glory on their instructors and school by becoming architects, craftsmen, designers, painters, and printers and excelling in their trades. "A thing of beauty is a joy forever."

The North Side business department offers such an extensive program that one may obtain the training considered necessary for a position in any field of the commercial world. The six able instructors are employed to give instruction along the lines of general business, clerical business, and stenographic business.

Courses are offered in bookkeeping, consumer buying, business law, and business administration to familiarize students with the correct principles of these subjects. Practical application is emphasized in typing, shorthand, and clerical practice, which includes the use of various modern machines. This closely-knit department is capably headed by Mr. Leslie Reeves, who is also the school treasurer.

A plan has been devised to permit students to have a major in business and still qualify for college entrance requirements.

The benefits received from the business department are reciprocal; the students gain knowledge and experience of modern business methods and in return they do stenographic and clerical work for the school.

For seven semesters pupils are required to take instruction in the English language. The hope is that they will be better able to express themselves through reading, writing and speaking.

Miss Catherine Cleary, department head, leads a staff of highly-trained instructors. It is her belief, as well as that of the other teachers, that any industrious student can learn to appreciate fine literature.

They present all types of works, those from the Chaucerian Age as well as contemporary writings. They further believe that students can thoroughly learn to use correct grammar and punctuation in creative work, writing, and speaking of their own words.

An additional semester, English 8, attempts to familiarize students with the ways of teaching they will find in college.

North Side sends its graduates well prepared into the impressionable world of today,

The North Side home economics department sets its goal high; that is to make all girls who come to them for instruction wise homemakers. The six semesters of carefully planned courses include work in almost every field that pertains to managing a home.

Semesters 1 and 3 teach girls to select and make suitable, smart, but practical clothing for themselves and others. Design, fabric, line, and coloring are accented.

Courses 2 and 4 give instruction in cooking, teaching the selection, preparation and serving of foods for health. Actual practice is done with laboratory-tested recipes. Home nursing and home planning follow in succession. Home nursing teaches how to care for patients, while home planning takes up furniture selection, styles of architecture, and the art principles involved in interior decoration. The apartment is maintained for practical application of what is taught. Miss Agnes Pate and Miss Martha Beierlein serve with Miss Helen Bean, who is the department head.

The Redskins' industrial arts department is able to give elementary and advanced training in three specific fields, drawing, wood, and metal work.

Armed with T-squares, drawing boards and pencils, students who are interested in mechanical drawings are ready to receive instruction from Mr. Tourist Thompson. They are offered eight semesters to become skilled in the use of instruments, lettering, inking, projection, and geometric relations. Mr. Ruthford Smuts is the instructor who teaches the various uses and possibilities of metal work. After learning the fundamentals, one may specialize in sheet metal work, machine shop work, operation of power machines, foundry practice, casting, or welding.

Tomorrow's prospective carpenters may start their training in wood 1 and 2 by learning to use hand tools and wood lathes. The following six semesters may be complemented by instruction in mill work, woodturning, finishing, and house construction. Mr. Robert Edwards reigns in the wood shop.

Students find their training in this department invaluable.

"Como esta usted?" "Tres bien." This might be the beginning of a conversation between representatives of the three languages taught at North Side. Miss Loraine Foster, who is head of the foreign language department, is assisted by Miss Judith Bowen and Miss Geneva Burwell in teaching Latin. During the four years of Latin offered, a student may broaden his appreciation for Roman culture and increase his understanding for the English language by delving into the works of Caesar, Cicero, and Virgil.

From the instruction of Miss Marie Ehle, students interested in Spanish learn to speak and read stories of customs and history of various Spanish-speaking countries.

French novices get instruction from Miss Frances Plumanns, who guides them in elementary conversation and later in the translation of Victor Hugo's works.

Through the efforts of these five instructors, good will between nations is promoted because good will is based on understanding, which they teach.

In this Atomic Age, what could be more important than mathematics—the basis of all science? The more highly specialized are our mathematicians the fuller and safer our lives will be. All freshmen are required to take a year of elementary algebra, and students on the academic courses are asked to study plane geometry for one year. For any students desirous of delving into more intricate mathematics, courses in solid geometry, advanced algebra, trigonometry and college algebra are offered.

Taken from the practical angle, mathematics will better prepare a student for any type of vocation. The training given in these courses will lead to clear, rapid, logical thinking which is valuable in any field. Miss Venette Sites heads the well-coordinated department consisting of Mrs. Ella Clark, Mrs. Alice Nusbaum, Miss Marie Miller, Miss Frances Plumanns, and Mr. Everett Pennington. This staff realizes the responsibility of preparing youth for the uncertain future, and they strive for progress.

"Music soothes the savage beast." And such music as comes from the North Side music department could only come from well-trained voices or highly skilled instrumentalists. Each year the department presents four concerts. Separately, the branches are equally efficient.

The A Cappella Choir, led by Mr. Raymond Beights, besides appearing for school programs, is busy presenting concerts for community organizations. During the fall, they presented Sunday afternoon radio concerts. For those yet-to-be-trained voices, classes are conducted in beginning and advanced chorus, girls' choir, and training choir.

The band is organized much as are voice classes. Training band and instrumental groups meet at various times. Under the baton of Mr. Robert Shambaugh, the band furnishes music for school functions and for public concerts.

Organ classes are instructed by Mr. Beights on the recently purchased electric organ.

With exceptional pride is the newly organized string group presented. They made a successful debut at the fall concert.

Keeping bodies and minds physically fit is an important and highly necessary job. The instructors who carry out the efficient physical education program at North Side should receive laurels for their untiring efforts in teaching good sportsmanship, fair play, and necessary health habits. Under a recently instituted plan, all boys and girls are required by state law to take three years of classes in physical education.

North Siders should be very proud of their gym facilities and especially proud of having the only swimming pool in the city's three public high schools.

Mr. Rolla Chambers is head of the athletic program which is made up of instruction in calisthenics, swimming, and indoor and outdoor sports.

A semester course in health, which is required for graduation, comes under the jurisdiction of this department. The physical education staff includes Miss Ruth Carroll, Miss Margaret Spiegel, Mr. Clair Motz, Mr. Hyrle Ivy, Sr., Mr. Donald Kemp, Mr. Robert Traster, and Mr. Joseph Kodba.

At North Side five laboratory sciences, biology, botany, physical geography, physics, and chemistry, are taught. Miss Vesta Thompson teaches botany and, together with Mr. Clifford Ott, biology. Students enrolled in either of these two courses look forward to field trips in search of birds and plants. Dissection and work with microscopes form part of the study program.

Mr. Noel Whittern teaches students to understand the various signs of weather, climatic conditions, and topography.

Under the supervision of Mr. Sherman Pressler, classes in physics are conducted. They study the laws of nature and their application to everyday life, which deal with motion, heat, light, pressure, and electricity.

The chemistry laboratory is equipped to perform any experiments within a high school range. Mr. Harold Thomas uses up-to-date methods to teach students recent developments in physical chemistry which deals with, among other subjects, atomic energy and nuclear reaction.

The science department members hope to obtain observation and objective thinking.

The problems which face tomorrow's world are serious and complex. The citizens who help to solve them must be better prepared to sanely and scientifically reach the solutions using peaceful methods. To that end are the social science department teachers striving.

Through the year of general history and the year of the United States history which are offered, students learn facts which enable them to profit by past mistakes, if and when "history repeats itself".

By studying vocations or the required semester of civics, one may understand his federal, state, and community governments and how to take an active part in them, which is every citizen's inherited privilege. Economics will show how and why the country's business fluctuates according to man's changing desires. Sociology is a study of the changing social conditions in the United States.

Miss Marian Bash keeps the teachers in this department working toward one end, that of making North Side students good citizens.

At left, cafeteria workers, Mrs. Maggie Moffett, Mrs. Bertha Eichel, Mrs. Cleo Dennis, and Miss Gladys McCullough, pause in preparing food for famished Redskins. At right, Custodian Ralph Chambers and John Peterink, janitor, make nightly wastebasket emptying rounds.

When the 3:17 bell sounds, one can hear shouts of "I'm goin' to rehearsal," or "Don't forget; there's a debate meeting," or "I gotta get a story in—tonight's the deadline." Dramatics, speech, and journalism constitute a major part of the extracurricular program at North Side. Regular classes are conducted in each.

Miss Margery Suter directs the budding Bernhardts and Barrymores from their first faltering pantomime to the senior play's polished acting.

Students interested in speech work, either debate, extemp, orations, or declamations, check the bulletin board outside 312 for the latest speech information which is posted by Mr. Albert Coil.

Up and coming journalists wend their ways to 113 after school to get an ad list ready for the Northerner or to write copy for the Legend. Miss Freda Withers guides her paper and yearbook staffs through the proverbial thick and thin.

At the upper left of the opposite page Larry Haisley, Joan Pickens, and Jim Meyer watch Jackie Lutz and Glenna Manges in journalism. Continuing clockwise, Bob Ford and Norman Stephan give a speech. Next comes a group of business students followed by a college algebra class. In the latter are Dick Gombert, Don Bartley, and Dave Horton, seated, and Ellis Shookman, Don Walker, and Leila Smith at the blackboard. Mr. Thomas is seen in his chemistry lab assisted by Sharon Meek, Joan Connett, and Jeanette Buechner. Steward Matter, Paul Clay, Darlene Bashop, and Beverly Hearn, seated, seem to enjoy their periodicals in English. Cooking satisfies Bonnie Ormiston, Beverly Keintz, Miss Pate, Nancy Kissinger, and Donna Jean Worst while Tom Hoemig, Janice Carpenter, Barbara Wakefield, Merl Geiger, and Jack Lyons will take nothing less than dramatics. In a one-act play are seen Jim Feasel, Joy Holman, Dick Edsall, and Jim Meyer.

Intently listening to Mr. Dayton Musselman are Harold Freidrich, Karen Harper, and Bud Isay. Joretta Shively, Joyce Shuherk, Ralph Steward, Nancy Shearer, and Inez Frances have varied reactions to their typing duties. Didn't Joyce and Inez like the joke or are they acting as concerned about typing as they look?

In classes, which dominate most of our school activities, we become acquainted with a part of the rhythm of our school symphony. After school the day's class happenings are recalled, and the tempo of those happenings may drag with a boring period or sparkle with a funny incident.

The young Miss Robin Hoods of North Side, pictured at the upper left, are actually part of a physical education class. Standing from left to right, are Eleanor Nicolet, Wanda Lee Stacy, Pat Firestone, Eileen Ridenour; seated are, Jeanine Stouffer, Sharon Burke, Joyce Davenport and Donna Rickhart. Take notice that that isn't bad shooting. At the lower left, Miss Gertrude Zook checks on Betty Straub and Judy Smell as John Blair watches Derrill Maxwell in the background. In the foreground are two other artists. At upper right in the circle an English class deals with its dramatic work. It appears that innocent Sharon Williams is being condemned by masterful Bob Conway. Joy Holman is about to take her part while Pat Strait in boy's garb remains disinterested as does Ed Knapp. Mr. Sherman Pressler demonstrates a physics problem, at the lower right of the circle, as young physicists, Gerry Fogel and Pat Havens listen intently.

Added Notes

Now nearing the end of the faculty section, the camera catches some educators at their ease. In the upper left hand corner, Supt. Merle J. Abbott and Miss Victoria Gross are seen enjoying the senior banquet. Faculty members have just as good a time as the students do at such social gatherings. Mr. Leslie Reeves with his usual smile is figuring, also as usual.

Mrs. Dorothy Leigh, secretary for Mr. Northrop, leafing through the files, is always ready to help the student when in need. Probably with the morning paper, Miss Venette Sites rests in an easy chair with Miss Katharine Rothenberger standing behind her. Also taking life easy is Mrs. Alice Nusbaum. Directly below them is Mr. Hyrle Ivy, boys' swimming instructor, posing with a special trophy. That big fish on the wall is one of Mr. Ivy's proud achievements.

In the lower left are two home-room neighbors. Miss Elizabeth Little prefers to read while resting as to Miss Loraine Foster's version. Mr. Robert Traster and Mr. Sherman Pressler also enjoy reading in their noon time.

Prelude to Democracy

To further emphasize the idea of free education in a land of democracy, one may listen to each resounding note of the Student Council. Each year the homerooms and clubs select one person to represent them in the school's governing body, and each year the Council is fortunate to have Miss Victoria Gross and Mr. Milton Northrop advise them. In the fall of this school year the Council started its activities by electing Dave Overmyer as its president. Bill Yahne was selected as vice-president, and Patty Long became the secretary.

Back-to-School-Night was the next of the activities; and with the help of the faculty, Council members were able to run an enjoyable program for the parents. This year the Student Council started something new by sponsoring a pep session and leading the student body to get behind the team and strengthen their school sportsmanship. North Side got a look at future Redskin citizens as eighth graders were entertained at Junior High Day. Courtesy Week brought out the frozen chivalry in our halls. Another successful feat of the Council was the traditional Get-Acquainted Day. After school the students finished a cheerful day by a dance and bake sale in the cafeteria. The Memorial Day Assembly was the Council's final activity.

STAR

Members of the senior class chosen by their classmates as being outstanding in one aspect or another are pictured in the circle. At the top of the circle we find that kid with the personality plus, Dave Overmyer. Dave really walked away with top honors as he was voted the best boy citizen, the most popular boy, the boy with the most engaging personality, the most handsome boy, the most courteous boy, and the boy with the prettiest hair. Our only comment is that it couldn't happen to a nicer person.

Reading counterclockwise, in the next picture we see the most notorious man hater leaving school with the most notorious woman hater! What is this world coming to? However, Peggy Whonsetler and Paul Cattin redeem themselves by pointing out the banister between them. Peggy was also voted the best girl athlete by the seniors.

Need the Pepsodent people look any farther than our next picture for models? There we find Bill Burbank, Barbie Hall, Bob Conway, and Carol Circle, looking very pleased with everything as they get together in Miss Gross' office. Bill and Carol were voted the two with the best senses of humor, and Carol claims the title of the most courteous girl. Barb was chosen the best girl speaker, and Bob was the top boy athlete.

The two smiling misses perched on the fender of a car are Jackie Lutz and Janet Rockey. Jackie, in addition to having a pleasing smile, was chosen the girl with the most engaging personality. Janet's classmates chose her as the prettiest girl and the girl with the prettiest hair.

Patty Payne and Tom Shaw do some fancy rug-cutting at an after-game dance to defend their titles as the best boy and girl dancers.

Patty was also voted the most outstanding girl, the most popular girl, and the girl who has contributed most to the betterment of North Side.

Living up to their titles, Don Walker and Ruth Becker, the most studious boy and girl, consult Webster as they do some extra studying in the library. Jim Meyer, the best boy speaker, also joins them.

A familiar couple to the Redskins under the big dome is Billie Thompson and Jim Platt, whom the '49ers chose as their cutest couple. The class also felt that Jim was the boy who had contributed most to the betterment of "Ye Olde Tepec-land".

In the gutter displaying broom and garbage can Patty Long and Chuck Hoemig show that they intend to live up to their titles of most likely to succeed. Patty also claims the honor of being chosen the best girl citizen not only by fellow seniors but by the Daughters of the American Revolution as well. The seniors feel that Chuck, our number one garbage collector, also deserves the title of the most outstanding boy of the class.

In September, 1945, when we "forty-niners" entered North Side, we were bewildered and confused and looked to others for help. But by the time we were seniors, we had found in our own ranks the leaders necessary in assuming the responsibilities we had inherited as seniors.

All of our years spent at the tepee are important to us, but our senior year will be the most remembered. We began this glorious year by electing Chuck Hoemig as president, Jim Platt as vice-president, George Hulfeld as secretary-treasurer, and Dave Overmyer as social chairman. Miss Katharine Rothenberger and Mr. Robert Traster were chosen to advise and lead our class throughout the year. To these advisers the class of 1949 expresses a grateful thanks for their able assistance in making our senior year a happy and successful one.

Our senior banquet, "Gold Rush," held January 19, was the beginning of many happy affairs that highlighted our last year. A month later on February 19 we again demonstrated our talents in the annual senior play production. "Spring Fever," directed by Miss Margery Suter, was a delightful comedy about college life.

On Senior Day we gave our gift to the school, and the Class Will was enjoyed by all. We then planted the traditional ivy, which will be a constant reminder of the Class of 1949 to coming classes and generations. Our Commencement Dance, "Beyond the Blue Horizon," will be remembered as one of the most outstanding, and our Baccalaureate as a beautifully inspiring service.

Commencement is the final attainment of our goal. On June 7 we say goodbye to North Side and all the happy hours we spent here. They will become but wonderful memories to be kept forever. We leave our Alma Mater with greater knowledge, a better understanding of life, many happy memories, and a firm determination to follow our school code in later life and always be "Dependable in the face of duty."

Noontime activities add a great deal to the gaiety and happiness of school life. Everything from peacefully sitting and talking on the lawn to warlike happenings such as pictured here occur in good weather at North Side. The Redskins are, from left to right, Jim Boyer, Hyrle Ivy, Jim Grant, and Bob Conway. Entirely at the mercy of these husky athletes is none other than Gale Horton. Since similar occurrences happen every noon, the picture is added as another high school memory.

The senior one-act plays were added to the long lists of successful undertakings of the senior class. The cameraman caught a scene from the unusual all-girl play enjoyed by all early in the school year. At this point there seems to be very little activity or conversation except by that of the sweepup woman, portrayed by Carol Circle. Lois Thompson is seated by the dresser while Eleanor Harshman and Barbara Hall seem to enjoy their sewing on the couch.

Another portion of the school symphony is contributed by the many clubs and organizations around North Side. Helicon is one of those many, and to the left can be seen a few senior members of Helicon happily going about their duties. Those seated are, from left to right, Bruce Tone, Nancy Rosenberger, Pat Havens, and Carolyn Neal, working somewhat independently. Assisting Pat Havens is Virgil Hagy while Carolyn Rye wisely watches one of the frequent discussions by Nancy and Bruce.

The North Side High School music department is very proud of the A Cappella choir. Tepeeland students also show pride in the group for it is one of the best musical organizations in the city. The choir each year is enjoyed by young and old alike. Pictured to the right are a few of the more outstanding members of the choir. They are, from left to right, seniors Dick Whonsetler, Pat Dye, Jim Feasel, Janice Meeks, and Dave Overmyer.

The camera man caught a scene from the Senior Day Assembly of the Class of 1948. In this assembly the Class Will is always read, and willed to Patty Long was a horse whip which was to aid her as editor of the 1949 Legend. All others in the picture are last year's seniors. John Harper, as master of ceremonies, is seen standing with a broad smile on his face. Marilyn Nichols, Joann Schneider, and Robert Stouffer are seated in the background.

When and where was this picture taken? You seniors remember about four months ago a certain social function commonly known as the senior banquet? Well, these five boys were seen entertaining themselves before things got started at the banquet. Warren McGahey, Byron Olson, Dave McComb, Jerry Hyser, and Glenn Erne are the fellows that patiently waited. After a good dinner and some educational and playful entertainment the boys were still wearing those broad smiles along with their other '49'er friends.

As usual the girls are trying to get a ride down town after school. Driver George Hulfeld will tease awhile and then take the girls to their desired destination. The four good-looking girls are, left to right, Joyce Arney, Ann Mackey, Max Stephan, and Barbara Altman.

Here's another picture of the senior one-act play. This one was the first of the three plays. Phyllis Johnson and Todd Lambert, to the right, portrayed two strangers who told some tall stories to each other. The stories were later corrected by others in the play.

Dorothy Luhman plays the villain as Chuck Hoemig flashes a shapely knee at the audience in the midst of their act in the GAA Vod-Vil. Don "The Hat" Walker sneers at Pat "The Sheriff" Long.

Carl Bradley, Mr. Northrop, and Barbara Jo Yost receive Patty Payne into the National Honor Society.

Mr. Louis Bobilya, better known as Sandy to the Redskin tribe, takes time out from feeding hungry customers to pose with Shirley Close, Nancy Kable and Jack Damsel.

Bud Struver grins shyly as John Harper, last year's Student Council presy, presents him with a pair of bloomers as part of the senior will.

Inez Frances looks awed at and pleased with the huge poster of Santa Claus that decorated the Redskin tepee at Christmastime. Wonder what's in her letter to Santa?

ALL HERE

In the top picture, Dick Edsall snags more customers for the Legend's patron pages. The staff appreciates the fine cooperation of the many signers of these pages which are found at the back of book.

That stump in front of the big tepee seems to be a pretty popular resting place. The present occupants include Zandra Scotton, Jeanette Buechner, Barbara Wakefield, Ann Worster and Joann Zickgraf.

Our Junior Prom, "Shangri La", will long be remembered by the class of 1949 as well as by others who attended it. Pretty girls in flowing formal gowns, handsome boys decked out in suits and ties, together with clever decorations and soft music made it a night to remember. Shown sitting one out are Chuck Hoemig, Jackie Lutz, Jim Platt, Billie Thompson, Tom Leonard, and Sally Beierlein.

When it comes to bow ties Frank Sinatra has nothing on the four boys to the right. These smiling class officers have directed the many senior activities, from their installation until Commencement. Seated are Dave Overmyer, social chairman; and Chuck Hoemig, president. Standing are George Hulfeld, secretary-treasurer; and Jim Platt, vice-president.

JUNIORS

Officers and advisers of the junior class shown at the top of the J are, seated, George Dutter, president; Miss Judith Bowen and Mr. Ruthford Smuts, advisers; standing, Ellen Hunt, secretary-treasurer; Jim Schlatter, vice-president; and Evelyn Burgess, social chairman. Below them Jim Schlatter and Evelyn Burgess perch on the information desk to pose for the photographer; Bill Dailey pauses to chat with step-loungers, Nancy Heider and Ellen Hunt. Joyce Bond flashes her ever-ready smile while George Dutter manages to keep from falling asleep; Phyllis Eicher isn't enjoying the situation as are Max Morris and Patty Selby. These ten Joes and Janes were elected the most outstanding members of their class.

Row 11: Florence Wyss, Ann Young.

Top row: George Sibbanis gulps on a coke as he and Ed Jordan pose for the photographer. Cheri Conner flashes her familiar smile as she answers the phone in the Northerner room. Out for some fresh air and exercise are Evie Bolinger and Dick Willis; Bud Bodie looks serious, but Terry Klinger has his usual carefree look about him. Second row: Sally Beierlein, Marilyn Barrand and Mary Horner seem to be interested in some unseen object but Marilyn Bruick, second from right, offers her meanest frown. Two well known juniors, Lois Field and Carole Stillpass, spend their fifth period at Sandy's. Decorating Sandy's window are Darrell Bauer and Ray Kurtz, front, with Gene Church, Dave Miller and Larry Heller behind. The next bevy of beauties includes Nancy Pape, Mary Harris, Carol Eisberg, Carol Finkhouse and Barbara Bowley. Bottom row: Jimmy Schlatter looks pleased as Evelyn Burgess, Donna Knispel, Phyllis Eicher, Barbara Shipman, and Carol Bayer decorate his car. The three major features of the next picture are drinking fountain, Joan Connett, and Sharon Cress. Dick Smith warns any would-be tacklers to keep their distance. Carol Kougel accompanies Elsie Meiners and Wanda Brudi for their duet.

In the bottom row, smiling lassies on their way to class are Bev Glasas, Phyllis Neal, Ruth Cleveland and Toby Lantz. How can people smile on their way to work? Still another group willing to have their pictures taken includes Owen Haycox, Marlo Cramer, Tom Leonard, Joe Clark, Bill Jones, Bob Steller, and Ken Westerhausen. Marvin Crell, a newcomer to North Side, flashes his ever-ready smile as he stops to inspect the bulletin board. Four popular juniors, Delores Gilbert, Betty Andrews, Betty Householder, and Donna Winebrenner wait for a bus.

The lads and lassies shown in the top three pictures were chosen by their classmates the most outstanding members of the freshman class. Above, Dave Platt, Bob Ransburg, and Don Sanders relax in the sun on the front steps. In the upper corner, Steve Martin posts himself on the flag pole to act as wind breaker for shivering Janet Hubbard and Barbara Bowers. At the left, Sandra Hobrock, Bill Conway, Sonya Deister, and Froncie Gutman form a vivacious quartet. In the bottom picture are the elected officers and advisers. Bill Conway, president; and Mrs. Alice Nusbaum, adviser; are seated with Bob Ransburg, secretary-treasurer; Mr. Joe Kodba, adviser; and Froncie Gutman, vice-president, standing behind them. Dave Platt, social chairman, was absent when the picture was taken.

In the picture to the right are three pert and pretty froshies, Sue Obernier, Sandra Hobrock, and Janet Hubbard. Along the second row, Froncie Gutman, poised on the steps, shows the typical freshman confidence. The class party planners, better known as the frosh social council, are, seated, Patsy Overman and Bonnie Johnson, and standing, Shirley Summers and Dean Armstrong. In the bottom row, Ellen Ross and Flo Salyer halt for a moment in the halls. Harold Driver and Lewis Diller are engaged in the perpetual struggle with Redskin lockers. Popular, friendly Jean Warfield pauses for a drink—or is she about to spray the cameraman?

So Dear to

The Legend, which is so dear to its staff and which will become dear to you, was edited by the people pictured here. Most credit goes to the faithful work of Patty Long, editor, and Miss Freda Withers, adviser, shown in the center. Money problems were handled by business manager Jim Platt to the far left. Redskin graduates carry into their later life many happy memories of high school days under the big dome. It is the purpose of any yearbook to record and preserve these memories so that in future years it may become a permanent record of the happiest days of a person's life.

The responsibility of preparing North Side's yearbook of the class of 1949 has rested upon the Legend staff and the unfailing work and guidance of Miss Freda Withers, adviser.

After many months of untiring effort, the staff presents to students and faculty members the 1949 Legend with the theme, "There's Music in the Air."

In addition to the major staff, whose pictures are shown here, the minor staff consisted of Dick VanHorn, Ellen Hunt, Lois Field, Tommy Hoemig, and Sonya Deister, underclass editors, and Maxine Stephan, Joy Ummel, and Phyllis Manecke, typists. Too, there were home room agents whose duties consisted of getting subscriptions and taking payments.

THE NORTHERNER

National Honor Rating—Quill and Scroll. All-American Award—National Scholastic Press Association Medalist—Columbia Scholastic Press Association.

Side High School, Fort Wayne, Indiana, Monday, January 24, 1949

Redskin Journalists Publish Top Ranking Weekly Paper

With the clickety-clack clatter produced by hunt-and-peck typists of sundry speeds, The Northerner adds its voice to the tempo of life at North Side. All students can well be proud of this weekly newspaper which has won top laurels in Quill and Scroll, National Scholastic Press Association, and Columbia Scholastic Press Association throughout the years.

Work on the paper represents long hours after school down in 113 by the editorial staff, contacts with advertisers entailing a lot of "leg work" on the part of the ad staff, and getting subscriptions and delivering papers by the circulation department.

Staff Jobs Vary

Whether it's arriving early Friday mornings in order to fold Northerners, running errands, making a deadline on time, tearing one's hair when a head won't count out correctly, or doing any of a hundred and one jobs, all efforts are blended together in publishing the happenings of tepeeland. About 125 students comprise the staff which is under the direction of Miss Freda Withers, faculty adviser.

Editors Check Work

In the second row freshman Patsy Overman has Mary Horner, classroom news editor, explain the assignment book to her. Copy editors Richard Prairie, Betty Miller, and Ronda Jones write heads, while editors Patty Wyans and Gloria Erdman look over some editorials and feature stories.

Across the bottom, circulation manager Elise Deister upholds her pole heads Mary Lee Sparling, Sam Jackson, Marilyn Bruick, and Charlene Hesler as the circulation staff launches its "totem pole" subscription drive. In the sports department reporter Froncie Gutman and editor George Hulfeld pound out copy. Advertising manager Carol Bayer counts her weekly ad list while Sam Jackson and business manager Lois Field talk to her.

With a Song in My

Being at a concert where the A Cappella choir of North Side is performing means listening to music which is sung in such a way that the audience is completely engulfed in the mood of the song. Under the direction of Raymond Beights, the choir has achieved this purity of tone and quality.

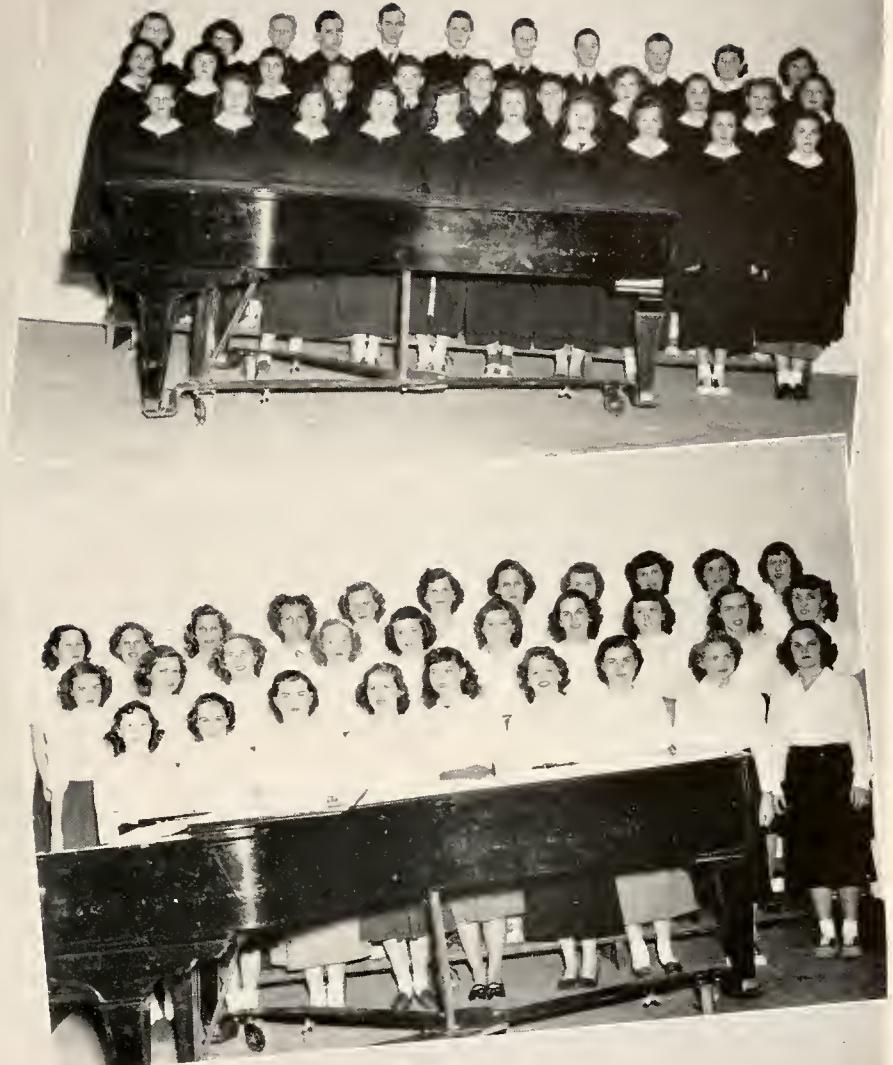

This group has sung many songs and programs throughout the year. Again last winter they were heard in a series of nine Sunday afternoon concerts on the radio. These broadcasts are sponsored annually by Koerber's, lasting from October 17 to December 19.

As usual the Christmas season was the choir's busiest time. Most important of the Christmas performances was the choir's cooperation with "101" Club in presenting a radio program through which needy families were aided by contributions from the public.

The choir also sang for many civic organizations throughout the year such as the Chamber of Commerce and the Engineers' Club. At Easter, A Cappella, along with training choir, presented the annual Lenten Cantata. This year it was "The Seven Last Words of Christ."

Besides all this, the choir sang for the school at the Chapel Assembly, the Christmas Assembly, and the Lincoln-Washington Assembly. The one new addition to the vocal side of life this season was the "Sweet Sixteen."

Strike Up the Band

Mr. Robert Shambaugh, director

The ever popular North Side band, under the direction of Mr. Robert Shambaugh, has come to be an organization that fills each student's heart with pride and joy.

This year, the band has been busy playing and performing on the gridiron, marching in civic parades, providing pep music for the basketball games, and giving concerts.

North Side's band took part in different parades this year. One of the most colorful was the balloon parade opening the Christmas holiday season. At the Armistice Day parade, North Side won first place in marching bands. This is considered a high honor for this contest is held annually. Another parade was the regularly occurring "Get Out and Vote Parade." In the spring, there's another highlight in the parade program. That is the Memorial Day observance.

However, the band marches elsewhere besides on the downtown streets. The most noted place is on the gridiron. Here they maneuver into different formations, such as the notable "N."

During the basketball season, the band tried to entertain the fans with spirited marches and often came forth with a novel tune. The cheering section appreciates the band's help in musical yells.

The band has shown its skill in concerts by playing arrangements from "boogie woogie" to great symphonies. Some of the highlights were "Bobby Sox Suite," "Stout Hearted Men," and selections from "Oklahoma!"

Concerts were given this year on November 6, 1948; followed by the winter concert

Carter, Desmonds, Taylor, Holman, D. Platt, Blance, Crowell, Knapp, Kaufman, Reynolds, Robinson, Wilson, Geiger, and Dutter. Those standing are Rible, Strader, Brown Warfield, Jellison, Behmer, Platt, Gombert, Neal, Lambert, Smith, and Funk.

December 4, 1948; the Easter Cantata, March 25 and 26, 1949; and concluding with the spring concert May 13, 1949.

"Our" band also plays annual concerts for the grade schools, Forest Park and Franklin, giving the younger school children an illustration of what they can participate in if they desire musical education in high school.

The band, shown here in full regalia, hopes their music will be heard, and appreciated by all students in the halls of North Side.

Below the group picture, four members of the band find relaxation around the piano. They are Jim Meadows, Jim Behmer, Carol Vollmar at the piano, and Lois Thompson. Hyde Smith, Lyle Taylor, Beatrice Funk and Jack Rible practice along with the A Cappella choir in the background.

"Ice cream, candy, coke," shout vivacious vendors of sweets, the Boosters. These active teepelanders, led by Mr. Noel Whittern, handle the concessions for the Redskins' sports events. Heading the officers' slate is Nancy Rosenberger assisted by Ann Young, vice-president; Inez Frances, secretary; Martha Beck, treasurer; Carol Circle, pep session chairman; and Tona Marquiss, point recorder. The cheerleaders, supervised by Mr. Ruthford Smuts, deserve praise for the outstanding work they have done to boost our teams to victory. Regular yell leaders are Keith Hensler, Bob Heyn, Sharon Bowser, Evelyn Burgess, and Jo Loyce Hunter assisted by five "reserve directors of the shout."

Below Ed Anderson, Marjorie Hively, and Mr. Whittern transact some big Booster business. Hungry fans crowd the selling stands. Between halves Don Sanders, Bon Winefer, Darrell Bauer, and Gene Stephen refresh themselves. Smiling hucksters are John Marquiss, Lynn Otis, Pat Snyder, Margaret Koontz, Wanda Stacy, and Una Zimmerman.

Stay Just As You Are

"Hold real still now, please" and "Come on, smile" are expressions that can frequently be heard around North Side whenever a cameraman appears. For all photography enthusiasts, Camera Club is the answer to a prayer.

Members learn to take, print, and enlarge pictures and to manipulate different types of projectors. Equipment for every type of photography is available, and a new remodeled darkroom is at the members' disposal.

This semester the club has been engaged in a project of taking home room pictures. These have been available to any students of school who wish to buy them.

In the spring there was a display of pictures taken by the members during the year. These pictures were judged by the faculty, and prizes were awarded. All during the year, weather permitting, the club went on hikes. Camera Club also held two parties during this year, one at Christmas and one in the spring.

Leaders of the organization, with Mr. Dayton Musselman as the adviser, were Bill Myers, president, and Bill Gotschall, secretary. Pins in the form of tiny silver or gold folding cameras were presented to members for service points.

North Side camera fans take great care and pride in their fascinating pastime. In the upper picture Gordon Hailey, Eddie Pettibone, Bill Meyers, Jerry Sullivan, and Jim Kolmerten are engaged in the developing process. Developing is, of course, the last process in picture taking and these students are anxiously awaiting to see the outcome of their recently snapped photographs. In the next picture the three boys are working on the enlarger machine. Evidently their snaps were too small. They are Hyde Smith, Paul Willer, and Bill Gotschall. Again working on enlargement are Hyde Smith, Ed Gray, Mr. Dayton Musselman, and Ed Todd.

Tell Me a Story

"The Late George Apley," "Laura," "The Great Big Door Step"—No, it's not curtain time at the Fort Wayne Civic Theatre, only a monthly meeting of the literary-minded members of the Helicon Club.

This cultural organization each year plans its programs around a definite phase of literature. This year plays were chosen as the annual theme.

Helicon Club, sponsored by Miss Mildred Huffman and Miss Mabel Greenwalt, chose these officers to guide them through the year: Jim Lamb, president; Patty Long, vice-president; Patty Payne, secretary; George Hulfeld, treasurer; Barbara Hall, social chairman; Patty Havens, membership; Maxine Cramer, publicity; Dorothy Norton, program; and Jim Meyer and Don Walker, critics.

The year's diversified activities included discussion of plays currently showing at the Civic Theatre, a potluck in November, and the annual Christmas project. These were followed by the Washington-Lincoln Assembly, and the festive Spring Tea.

meetings, consisting of business and interesting programs, are held every third Monday.

The purpose of Junior Classical League is to encourage among the young people of our country an interest in and appreciation of the civilization, language, and art of ancient Greece and Rome, and to give them some understanding of the debt of our own culture to that of classical antiquity.

Among the annual activities of this praiseworthy club are included a dance and a Christmas party. This year the dance, "The Kandy Kane Krawl," was co-sponsored with the Spanish club, Los So-Dal-es, and the French club, Parmi Nos Amis. It was presented on December 19 following the North Side basketball game with Washington. The Christmas party was also a combined affair. This year it was held at the home of Maxine Cramer.

In order to aid Miss Loraine Foster and Miss Judith Bowen with the administration of Junior Classical League, Marylane Desmonds was elected senior consul; Ellen Hunt, junior consul; Arlene Harshman, scriba; Delores Holsapple, quaestor; and Jeannine Stauffer and Donna Knispel, aediles.

Chatterbox

Seated in the top picture are Mr. Albert Coil, adviser, and Pat Havens, president. Standing: Beverly Crabill, Pat Selby, Patti Schubert, Keith Coil, Dorothy Norton, Marshall Ruchman, and Carole Stillpass. In the first row of the middle picture are Carolyn Heck, Eleanor Harshman, Patty Payne, Carol Bayer, Pat Firestine, and Muriel Morey. Second row: Dorothy Luhman, Norma Tetlow, Lois Field, Ellen Hunt, Donna Knispel, and Barbara Hall. The bottom picture consists of Shirley Horton, Margaret Smith, Carolee Ball, Betty Norman, and Ruth Becker, seated. Standing: Carol Neusbaum, Karen Harper, Norman Stephan, Dick Baum and Malcolm Coil.

The newest club here at the tepec, The Norators, was founded by Mr. Albert A. Coil, speech instructor. It was organized by the members of National Forensic League and Junior Forensic League. A contest was held for the naming of the club, and Patti Schubert was the winner. "N" stands for North Side, and orators are those skilled in the art of public speaking.

The programs at the regular monthly meetings consist of guest speakers and speeches by members. A Christmas party was held in December and a picnic later in the spring.

The goal of most Norators is to earn enough points to become members of the National Forensic League and to earn a speech letter.

Officers for the first semester included Pat Havens, president; Carole Stillpass, vice-president; Beverly Crabill, recording secretary; Patty Selby, treasurer; Keith Coil, corresponding secretary; Dorothy Norton, historian; and Patti Schubert, chairman of social committee.

Angels of Mercy

The North Side Chapter of the Junior Red Cross promotes greater friendliness and understanding among the nations of the world. They help to provide for the well-being of those unfortunate countries which are slowly recovering from the ravages of war.

Advised by Mrs. Alice Nusbaum, the organization this year raised enough funds for the adoption of Eva Bohmova and Vladimir Tichovsky, two war orphans from Prague, Czechoslovakia. The Red Cross members send packages and letters to them.

Aside from their Samaritan acts, they have social affairs. Inez Frances served as general chairman for "Have a Heart," a dance after the basketball game with Concordia. At Christmas, they had a party at the regular meeting.

Pat Strait served as president both semesters. Carol Linnemeier and Joan Pickens shared honors for the vice-presidency, each for a semester, while Carol Circle and Joann Zickgraf have split the duties of the secretary.

Far Away Places

La Sociedad de Alumnos Espanoles is one of the newest additions to the extra-curricular activities here in North Side. Being formed three years ago, the organization attempts to further the Spanish student's knowledge of Spanish-speaking countries, conditions, and relations.

Los So-Dales, the abbreviated name, combines with the French and Latin clubs every Christmas; and the three celebrate with a potluck dinner and interesting program. Not only for social purposes, but also for business, the combined foreign language clubs hold an after-game dance. The club ends its year's activities with a party or picnic in the spring. As a contribution to better scholarship, Los So-Dales awards a Spanish medal each year to the senior with the highest average in Spanish.

Joyce Bond was elected as president, and Barb Altman took over Frances Ostrander's position as vice-president. The secretary-treasurer spot was filled by Charles Hoemig, and the social committee was headed by Phyllis Eicher. Miss Marie Ehle is the club adviser.

Doin' What Comes Naturally

National Forensic League is one of the few national honorary societies at North Side. Membership in this organization, which stresses scholarship as well as speaking ability, is awarded only after the student has earned the required number of points through debate or other speech activities.

Members of N.F.L., led by Mr. Albert Coil, adviser, have had a busy season this year. At the beginning of the school year they were active in forming a new and larger speech club, the Norators, open to all students interested in speech. Early in December many of the members attended the Purdue Debate Conference and Legislative Assembly. In addition to attending out-of-town meets, N.F.L. sponsored a debate tournament in November and a general speech meet later in the season. Intramural contests in extemp, oratorical, humorous, and dramatic declamations were also sponsored. The annual speech banquet was held late in May.

Officers for this year include Dorothy Luhman, president; Muriel Morey, vice-president; and Barbara Hall, secretary.

Dorothy Norton, Carol Bayer, Pat Selby, and Lois Field are remarking about the award that the National Forensic League won in 1945. About to show their speaking ability are Eleanor Harshman, Pat Payne, Pat Havens, and Franklin Sutter in the middle picture. Lastly are Dorothy Luhman, president, and Barbara Hall, secretary, seated; Mr. Albert Coil, adviser, and Muriel Morey, vice-president.

Nature Boy

Flowers, birds, trees—life's great open road is a favorite haunt of the nature enthusiasts under the "big dome." These Audubons of tomorrow spend hours roaming through parks or on river banks and hiking through the country.

The Nature Club provides an excellent opportunity for young lovers of the out-of-doors to commune with Mother Nature and her mysteries. Miss Vesta Thompson and Mr. Clifford Ott, both vitally interested in nature's rarities, sponsor these young people.

During the past year, the Nature Club held many unusual and interesting meetings. Among these were discussions by the members of hydrophonics (plants raised without soil); a group of flower slides, plus interesting sidelights by Mr. Dayton Musselman; and at one meeting Jim Meyer showed movies and told of his summer trip to the western mountains.

Officers of the nature group are president, Ralph Steward; vice-president, Betty Peters; secretary, Carolyn Neal; treasurer, Margaret Koontz; program chairman, Rosemary Le May; point recorder, Betty Le May; and historian, Jim Meyer.

They Shall Have Music

The North Side Instrumentalists are a group of band members who have the sole purpose of fostering a better band for the school by way of scholarship, musicianship, and attitude. It has been found that the band will prosper more if helped by an organization whose one purpose is the interest of the band.

Have you ever been around the band room and seen a person struggling with a varied collection of instruments? Well, don't feel sorry for him because he is a pledge to N. S. I. In order to become an honorary member of this group the pledge must show initiative toward betterment of the band, scholarship, and a good attitude about practicing.

N. S. I. also provides social functions for the band. One is the annual Christmas party. Also, under the guidance of their adviser, Mr. Robert Shambaugh, they plan trips for the band, such as going to the John Adams basketball game as they did this season, and the out-of-town concerts to neighboring cities.

Saludos, Amigos

"Peace through understanding" is the principle upon which Pan-American Club was founded. It has as its purpose the furtherance of friendly relations between the nations of the western hemisphere. Each nation is represented by a boy and girl who study the country and report on it at the regular monthly meetings.

Each year on Pan-American Day, April 14, a school assembly is held to teach the student body more facts about our southern neighbors. This year, with Lowell Essex as general chairman, Pan-American sponsored a dance after the North Side-South Bend football game. Members also donated goods for a bake sale after the music concert December 5.

Miss Frances Plumanns and Miss Katharine Rothenberger are the sponsors of Pan-Am; and officers for this year include Barbara Hall, president; Maxine Cramer, vice-president; Ila Mae Olson, secretary; Dorothy Norton, treasurer; and Carol Circle, membership chairman.

Paris in the Spring

To gain a better appreciation of France, her language, customs, people, and history is the objective of the Parmi Nos Amis Club. They carry out this plan at monthly meetings by having student reports, adult speakers, and round-table discussions. From the insignificant beginner who is just learning to ask "comment allez-vous?" to the most learned French student who reads novels and plays, all are eligible to take part in the activities of French Club.

For the Christmas party, which was a potluck held jointly with the Latin and Spanish Clubs, Maxine Cramer offered her home. It was under Maxine's direction that the first semester's functions were executed. Again in December Parmi Nos Amis joined with the other language clubs to sponsor an after-game dance. The result, after careful preparations, was the Kandy Kane Krawl.

Jim Behmer, after the election in January, conducted the second semester's meetings as president.

In the top picture a group of members of the French club enjoys American refreshment. They are, seated: Sally Zimmerman, Miss Frances Plumanns, and Beverly Biery. Standing: Victor Tannehill, Bob Mueller, Carolyn Rye, Maxine Cramer, and Patty Long. The middle group, more interested in France and the French language, are Stanley Volz, Pat Levy, Babbie Roberts, Susan Mungovan, Carol Bayer, Bill Jones, Ellen Hunt, Joan Levy, Mary Horner, Marilyn McKeeman, and Bill Tully. Carolyn Rye, Mary Ann Chaney, Jim Feasel, Billymae Southard, and Paula Elson are gathered around the desk. It seems they are planning one of the club's social gatherings.

Smoke Gets in Your Eyes

A choking cough, a spine-chilling scream, a loud explosion! Could it be a murder at North Side? No, it's only those future "scientists" performing before Phy-Chem. The purpose of Phy-Chem is to carry on the study of physics and chemistry and to create and develop interest in the chosen sciences. The members of the club consist of those who are or have been students in the physics or chemistry department.

Activities for the year included the annual Christmas party. For this affair an electrical device was rigged up, with the compliments of Mr. Sherman Pressler, and placed on a chair. Other activities included a dance, "Cosmic Capers," held after the South Side basketball game in January and a picnic in the spring.

To assist Mr. Pressler and Mr. Harold Thomas, Bruce Tone was elected president; Bill Yahne, vice-president; Dick Edsall, secretary; and Joann Zickgraf, treasurer. The second semester Jeanette Buechner was elected president; Jim Platt, vice-president; Joann Zickgraff, secretary; and Ed Thoms, treasurer.

In the top picture: Barbara Wakefield and Sharon Williams are seated. Standing: Walker, Edsall, Kling, Meek, Hunter, Zickgraf, Buechner, Hutsell, Burke, Hagy, Stauffer, Gaskill, Essex, Shambaugh, Desmonds, Hesler, and B. Pressler. All-American Girls

Associated with the Y.W.C.A., Polar-Y members strive constantly, "To face life squarely and to find and give the best." Members are urged to uphold the ideals of fellowship, Christian character, service, and leadership.

Led by Ann Young, president, Polar Y had a very active year. Assisting the president were Barbara Landis, vice-president; Marilyn Mounsey, secretary; and Ann Warfield, treasurer.

Some of the activities in which members participated included the selling of Christmas cards, a Christmas party, and two teas. The first of these teas was the Faculty Tea, followed at a later date by the Mother-Daughter Tea.

One of the most outstanding events was the annual dance held after the Sectional games in the cafeteria. The dance was sponsored by Y.W.C.A. affiliates of all the public high schools and is an annual affair. The Senior Farewell was the final event of the many activities of Polar Y's social calendar.

Miss Loraine Foster and Miss Geneva Burwell have advised Polar Y throughout the year's events.

I Guess I'll Get the Papers and Go Home

Admittance to the 1500 Club is the first step that North Side's ambitious young journalists look forward to. It means one has acquired 1,500 points for publications work. This work includes writing news, features, sports, editorials, or performing other staff jobs. A bronze pin is awarded for achieving 1,500 points. Higher awards include the silver pin for 3,000 points, the gold pin for 5,000 points, and the gold-jeweled pin for 10,000 points.

Quill and Scroll, an international honor society for high school journalists, has chapters in more than two thousand schools. Young journalists who wear the Quill and Scroll pin are outstanding senior journalists and must be in the upper third of their class. This winter at North Side five senior journalists were honored. They are now looking forward to the day when they will take their place in this modern, complex, newspaper world.

At right are Patty Payne, Don Walker, Barbara Hall, and Patty Long, who were elected to Quill and Scroll last winter. Also elected was Patty Wyans, absent when the picture was taken. Others were to be selected this spring.

"Annie Oakleys" and "Buffalo Bills" grace the tepee's halls—not products of the wild and woolly west, but of Mr. Hyrle Ivy's and Mrs. Grace Bridges' Rifle Clubs.

The members of this "Bulls-Eye-Brigade" begin their marksmanship chores when the first frost arrives. After a few weeks of diligent practice they begin to get a bead on the awards offered by the National Rifle Association, of which the Rifle Club is a member.

The club's members who have attained a high degree of distinction in North's shooting circle are Larry Zent, Gerald Pickering, Lynn Otis, Ed Bowser, and Patty Wyans. Diplomas are first awarded to the "hairsplitters," followed by medals or certificates. The more outstanding one's shooting, the more highly rated is his award.

These riflemen and their fair colleagues chose these officers for this year: president, Ed Bowser; vice-president, Tina Einhorn; secretary, Patty Wyans; executive secretary, Lynn Otis; and treasurer, Pat Moriarty.

The tepee boasts such an outstanding "straight shooting" group that other schools of this area have sought advice from North's club in establishing their own.

Give My Regards to Broadway

The Student Players Club enables students to act with more skill and ability for future performances. Under the able direction of Miss Margery Suter, adviser, the members present short plays at the regular monthly meetings.

This year three senior one acts were presented to the student body in the fall. They were "Lady Luck," "Two On a Park Bench," and "Providence and the Guitar." The Christmas play, given December 11, was entitled "No Room in the Hotel."

On February 19 the most important play of the year, the annual Senior Play was presented. "Spring Fever" was a three act comedy; and those in the cast were Todd Lambert, Jim Feasel, Phyllis Johnson, Sandra Erickson, Bruce Tone, Patty Payne, Patty Long, Virgil Hagy, Pat Havens, Dick Edsall, Joy Holman, and Jim Meyer.

Phyllis Johnson served as president of the Student Players with Billie Thompson, vice-president, and Eleanor Harshman, secretary-treasurer.

Stout Hearted Men

Hi-Y Club is a branch of the Young Men's Christian Association. Since the Hi-Y pledge is "To create, maintain, and extend throughout school and community high standards of Christian character," the members attempt to carry out this spirit in clean speech, clean sports, clean scholarship, and clean living.

Highlighting the year was a joint meeting downtown with South Side's Hi-Y Club. Here the group was addressed by Dr. Thurmond Rice, who spoke on the subject, "Preparing for Successful Married Life."

One of the most important things that Hi-Y did this year was to have a luncheon with a speaker each month. Some of the outstanding speakers were Hilliard Gates, Dwight Shirey, Albert Coil, and "Curly" Armstrong.

Under the advisership of Mr. Dayton Musselman, the officers of Hi-Y for the past school year were Byron Olson, president; Max Morris, vice-president; Bill Bunnell, secretary; and Bill Ribel, treasurer.

The leaders of the Hi-Y organization are seen conducting a meeting in the top picture. Sweethearts on Parade

The Redskin majorettes add much sparkle and life to the already vigorous activities at North Side. The girls start off each basketball game with the presentation of the American flag. At half-time the basketball fans enjoy the fine entertainment that the twirlers are capable of giving. The girls also perform at a few football games as well as the pep sessions. Parades, concerts, and other school programs are also participated in by the majorettes.

The girls find time to practice at noontime and other free periods. Many long hours they work in order to please their observers. DeLoris Beucler and Nancy Shearer, assistant, are the leaders of the group of 20 twirlers here at North Side. Under their capable leadership the majorettes have had a successful and prosperous year. There are many people who will be looking for the twirlers and their new stunts next year. Mr. Robert Shambaugh assists the girls in setting their routines and formations to the music of the school band.

"Sweethearts on Parade" could not be a more appropriate name for this group of highly talented, good-looking girls. In the top picture are DeLoris Beucler, leader, and Nancy Shearer, assistant. Much credit is to be given to these two girls for their excellent leadership. However, leadership is useless without some fine performers. Kneeling in the middle picture are Bonnie Kaylor, Dorothy Shuler, Carol Smith, Marilyn Schmidt and Nancy Shearer. Standing: Linda Einhorn, Flora May Kaylor, Marion Potter, Norma Bushe, and Carol Meyer. Bottom picture, kneeling: DeLoris Beucler, Florence Wyss, Marilyn Roush, and Glenna Manges. Everybody Works But Father

Student volunteers, although they are not organized, play an important part at tepeeland. They give service in various lines, helping whomever needs help.

Two recruits are found every period at the information desk ready to guide guests to their destination and to deliver messages from both offices.

Study hall needs many volunteers to help keep attendance records accurate and complete.

Student volunteers may work in the library if they wish. Here they get a taste of all of a librarian's tasks, checking books, arranging them and cataloging them.

Working in the cafeteria also comes under the category of student volunteers. Students help to serve food and to clear trays.

Students may volunteer to grade papers, do tutoring, typing, filing, or any one of several miscellaneous tasks.

Each period six volunteers are seen as hall monitors.

Anyone who is passing in all his subjects may be a student volunteer. All the work they do is necessary, and it gives them training in various fields.

Everyone serves North Side or tries at one time or another to serve the school in whose halls they spend the best of their lives. Pictured on this page is just a small group of the more outstanding volunteers. In the top picture the camera has caught Jackie Lutz and George Hulfeld at the information desk. Many Redskins are envious of their job for it's not only a service but a pleasure. In the middle picture Mrs. Susannah Fonner, Marjorie Hively, Jackie Kanouse, and Joyce Davenport run over their files. In the bottom picture Sharon Matthews, Patsy Welty, Zandra Scotton, and Barb Wakefield work in the library.

We'll Fight On for Our Fame

A triumphant chord, a martial air, and a growing crescendo, thus rang the music of the tepee's athletic seasons.

September brought the gridiron tilts, beginning with a slow steady strain mounting in force and volume until the season's end when the Red gridders sang the tune of four wins, three ties, and two losses.

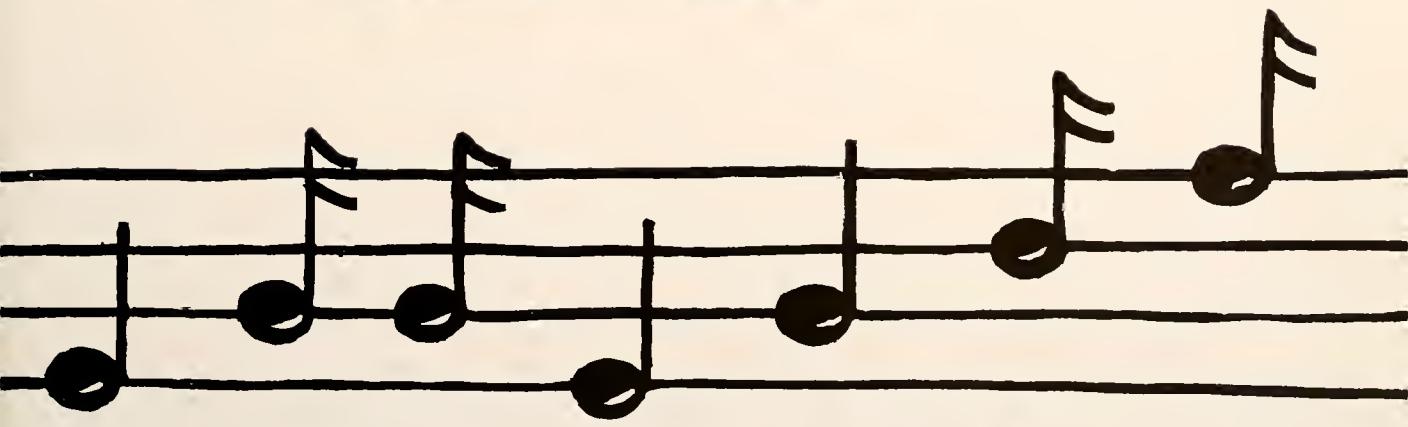

Concurrently "Song of the Open Road" became a popular air on the banks of the St. Joe as the Red thinlies of the cross-country team jaunted over hill and dale. The Chambersmen, as accustomed, sang their victorious airs as they completed another successful season. Every tree, stream, and glen bordering the Indian runners' course reechoed the scalpers' chant.

The winter's refrain introduced Hoosierdom's favorite—basketball. And with its debut, the music under the Big Dome became intense and exciting. The ensuing games proved equally exciting as the Motzmen pivoted and rebounded to write the final notes of the net nocturne with sixteen wins and four defeats. The needed measure was added at the season's end when co-captains Bob Conway and Jim Grant accepted the coveted city championship trophy for the tepee.

As the indoor and outdoor track seasons arrived, field and trackmen began another refrain. The relay teams, dashmen, and field artists joined forces to compose a fine track ballad.

Tennis contributed an added touch to the tepee's sports song by chiming in during the intermission of the football and basketball seasons.

Over Hill, Over Dale

The North Side harriers gave a good account of themselves again this year. Although they were defeated by two teams in the Sectional meet, they came back to place second in the eastern division of the N. I. C. In their complete schedule, the Redmen were only defeated by three teams, Mishawaka, Garrett, and South Side.

The boys who were trotting on the varsity were Don Johnson, Noble Walls, Jim Meadows, Vic Root, Jerry Gibson, and Lloyd and Bill Griswold.

The schedule was filled with only triangular and eastern division Northern Indiana Conference meets. However, the Sectionals and Conference meet brought the campaign to a close.

The harriers started the season downing LaPorte and Central of South Bend. The next week saw the Redskins bounce right back to defeat Goshen and South Bend Adams. The following week saw the cross country men bring in another victory over Riley and Elkhart. However, next came tragedy as Redskins ran up against the rugged Cavemen from Mishawaka. All was not lost though, as they beat Washington of South Bend in that triangular event. In summarizing the win and lost column, they beat seven teams and lost to one.

On October 19, 1948, the Sectional Meet was held at the Elks' Golf Course. Here, the harriers ran into trouble again as they were defeated by two teams, Garrett and South Side. However, the following week they came back fighting and ended a close second to the team that had already defeated them, Mishawaka, in the annual Northern Indiana Conference meet. In this meet, 21 teams participated and North Side ended by defeating all of them but one.

Down that Field

The history of our football campaign this year was a glorious season when compared with the year preceding. Under the most able leadership of head coach, Mr. Joe Kodba, and assistant coach, Mr. Robert Traster, "our" team ended its schedule with four wins, three ties, and two losses.

Much of the success of the team was due to the impenetrable line. The end positions were in the capable hands of Jim Grant and Hyrle Ivy, Jr., both over the 6 foot mark. At tackle "Bud" Struver and Dick Whonsetler, with Jere Preston on hand for emergency calls, gave the opposition plenty of headaches. Coming to the guard positions, we point with pride. The reason for this is because we have a man, Dick Pierce, who was appointed to the second team of the all-state squad. However, the other guard position cannot be slighted for Dick Lahmeyer downed all opposition in good shape. To end the description of the line, which averaged close to 185 pounds, we look at the center post. Here George Hulfeld was the main starter, with Chuck Ellenwood ready to step in at any given time.

What kind of a team would we have without a backfield? No, not a very good one. But, a backfield, we also had. At the engineering post were two tricky quarterbacks.

George Bowers, the "ground man," kept the team rolling until Coach Kodba thought a pass would be needed. Then Don Walpole would replace Bowers. Don proved himself many times, with his aerial attack in tight spots. Moving to the "fleetfoot" halfbacks, we remember Vern Smith and Bob Conway and their shifty running as they added the scoring punch. Lawrence Heller, however, aided the pair whenever they were in distress. The fullback, Dick Smith, found many "holes" in the line also, doing his share of the scoring.

The "Kodbamen" started the season at Elkhart, which ended in a 13-13 tie. Then they went on the warpath. Downing Goshen, Mishawaka, and Central Catholic in order, they showed their power. This gave them a bid for Northern Indiana Conference honors. Playing Central and South Side next, in that order, we became plagued with more ties. In the dying minutes of both games, the opponents came from behind to tie up the ball game and drove off chances for the city crown. The Redskins finished by losing two gallant battles to Washington and Central of South Bend, and whipping LaPorte.

The Redskins Sink A Basket

We point with pride to our basketball squad this season. Spearheaded by both "Lefty" Grant and Bob Conway, the team set a new mark in the win column by winning 16 games and losing 4. Two of the teams that stopped the netmen in the first game were taken into camp on return engagements.

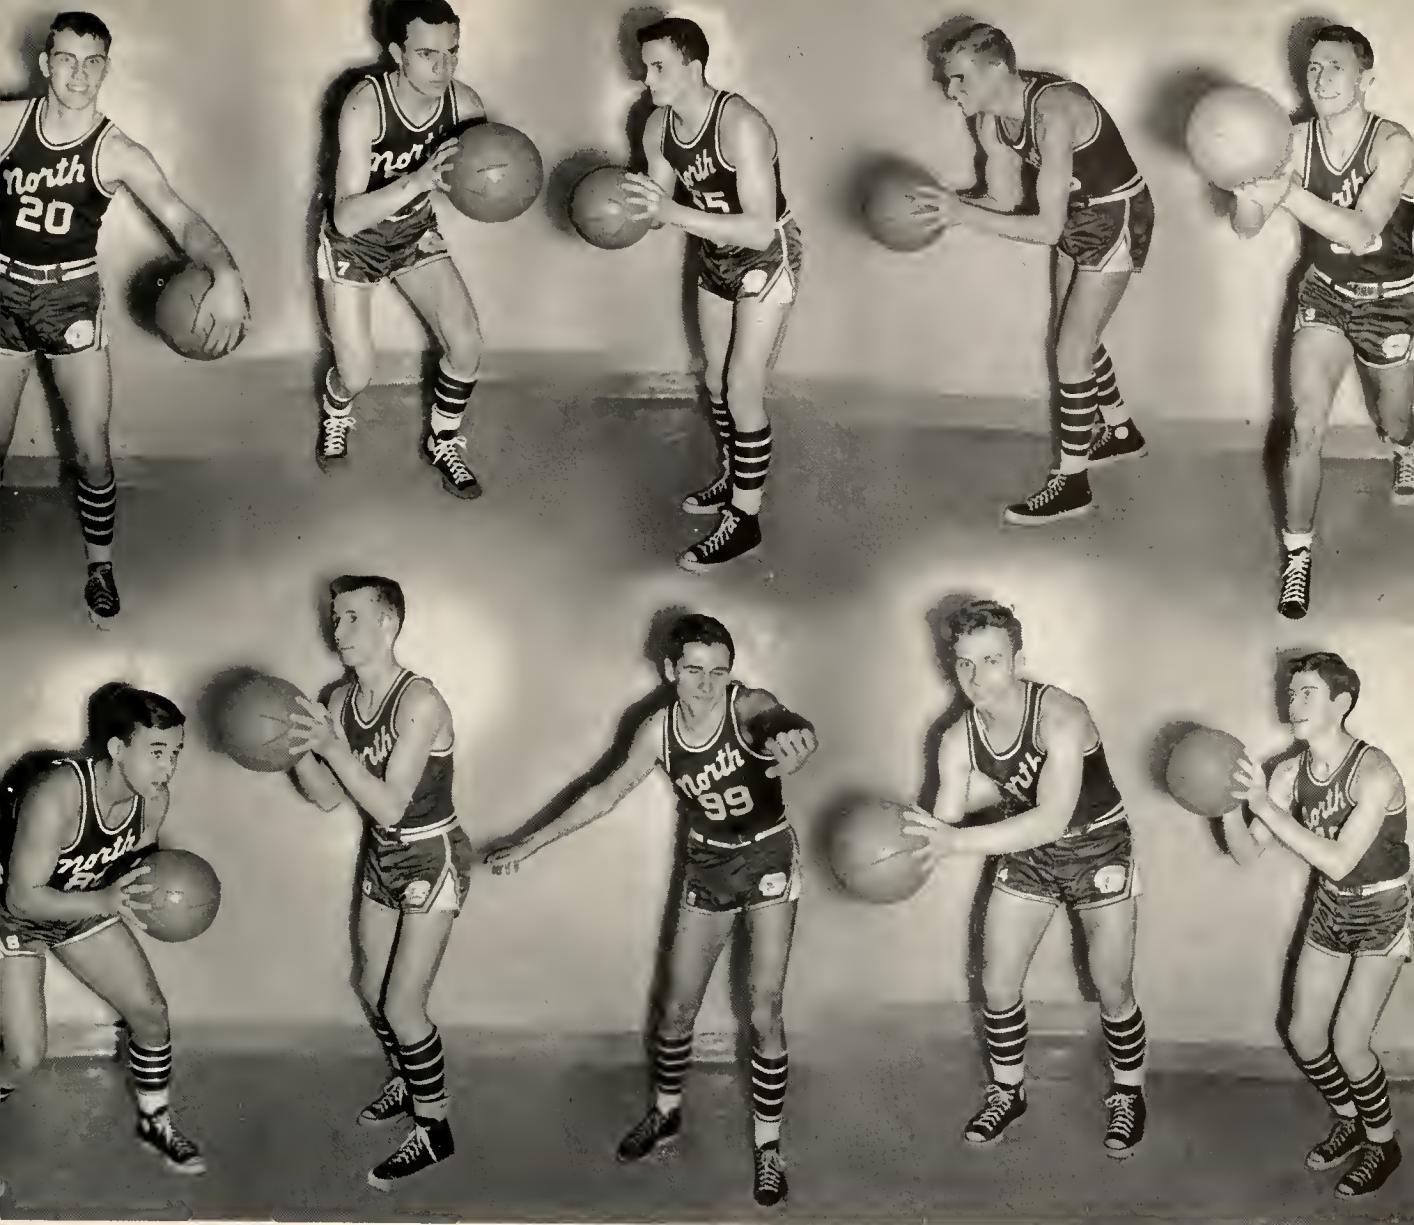

The team was composed mostly of undergraduates this season, which means they will be potent again next year. Head coach, Clair C. Motz, piloted his great team by starting games usually with Bob Conway, Doug Cunningham, Jim Schlatter, George Bowers, and Jim Grant. These boys, however, could not be sure of their starting posts because they were pushed all season by Jerry Gibson, Chuck Ellenwood, Hyrle Ivy, Jr., Chuck Hoemig, and George Dutter.

In both conference and city competition, North racked up 873 points to their opponents' 740. This gave the Redskins an average of 44 per cent to their opponents' average of 37 per cent.

With this average, North Side won the city championship and placed high in N. I. C. standings. Being beaten only once by South Side during the season, the local basketeers won over all other city opponents giving a 6-1 record and the championship. In the Northern Indiana Conference, South Bend Central and Mishawaka tied for first place, while North and LaPorte tied for the next place with a 7-2 record.

Turning to the Sectional Basketball Tournament, North Side trounced Arcola by the score of 72-28. Though North won the next game, it also spelled disaster. During the first half of the South Side game, Grant injured his left leg. Although handicapped, the Motzmen downed Coesse in the next game. The finale, however, was too much for Grant to stand and too much of a burden for Conway to handle; so Central ended a courageous campaign by winning by only two points, 51-49.

Off We Go - - -

Once again the Chambersmen are out beating the cinder path. This year they are ranked as one of the high potential teams to capture the state championship. Their schedule, as every year, is filled for both indoor and outdoor campaigns. Men of the cinder path will be trying to repeat this year the honors they won last season, such as the indoor crown and the eastern division title of the N.I.C. An individual honor also was won by Archie Adams in 1948 in breaking the national low-hurdle record.

The boys expected to run in the 60, 100, and 220 yard dashes are Archie Adams, Jerry Sullivan, and Derrill Maxwell. At the quarter position, Jim Platt will be on hand. Bob Conway will push him to the finish line with help from Doug Cunningham. The distance events are put into the laps of Noble Walls, Vic Root, and Jim Meadows. The hurdles will be held down by two Adamses, Russell and Archie.

Turning to the field events, Jere Preston and Kenny Harris will be taking care of opposition in the shot put. Lawrence Heller and Paul Cattin will climb to glory with their pole-vaulting abilities. The broad jump and high jump will be in capable hands with lettermen of last year, including Doug Cunningham, Chuck Hoemig, Ken Brown, and Jim Platt.

The most important events in the track schedule are the relay races which bring in the winning points. Coach Chambers hopes to produce just as capable or better baton squads as last year's.

In the pictures at the bottom are North Side athletes in action. In the top left corner, Archie Adams, the junior jet, gets set to run his specialty, the low hurdles. At the right, trackman Russ Adams shows his form in the high hurdles. In the center at the left are the Red cagers in a game with C. C. Pictured for the Redskins are Conway, Bowers, and Cunningham. At the right Doug Cunningham stretches for a high one as Bob Conway wards off a South player. Bottom row at the left, Bill Yahne and Jerry Sullivan show the correct method in passing the baton for the half-mile relay race. At the right North's two varsity quarterbacks, George Bowers and Don Walpole, look down field for a pass receiver.

Stars and Stripes Forever

Due to the enormous size of the Athletic Club in past years and due to the limited meeting space, it was disbanded and the Lettermen's Club started. Any boy who has earned a letter in football, basketball, track, cross-country, or tennis is eligible to become a member.

At the Club's first meeting Dick Pierce was elected president. Assisting him were Jim Platt, who served as vice-president, and Bud Struver, who was secretary-treasurer.

In the spring the Lettermen's Club sponsored a dance which was their main social affair of the year.

After the close of football season, parents of the football squad entertained with a potluck for the entire squad and the coaches. Following the dinner, movies of the 1948 football highlights were shown.

The Lettermen aided by the P.T. A. held a banquet for all present and past lettermen at the end of the basketball season. Jim Jackson, who was master of ceremonies for the evening, introduced the guest speaker.

Coaches of the various sports are advisers for the Lettermen's Club. They include the Messrs. Rolla Chambers, Clair Motz, Joseph Kodba, Robert Traster, Donald Kemp, and Hyrle Ivy, Sr.

Nobody Knows the Trouble They've Seen

The many problems connected with the managing of athletic activities here at North Side are solved by the Athletic Board. Under the supervision of Mr. Milton Northrop, principal, and Mr. Rolla Chambers, athletic director, the board in past years has established a record of which it rightly can be proud.

In addition to Mr. Chambers, the coaches who supervise our football, basketball, and track teams include Mr. Clair Motz, Mr. Joseph Kodba, Mr. Robert Traster, Mr. Donald Kemp, Mr. Harry Young and Mr. Robert Edwards. Mr. Hyrle Ivy has been in charge of boys' swimming, and Mr. Noel Whittern coached the tennis team. The other intramural sports are also under the direction of these coaches.

Three of these men, Mr. Motz, Mr. Kodba, and Mr. Traster, are new to North Side this year; and the successful seasons through which they led their first Redskin teams is a tribute to their ability as coaches.

Mr. Leslie Reeves, school treasurer, has handled the financial aspects of all athletic events. The accuracy and efficiency of Mr. Reeves and his helpers have eliminated many of the problems which usually accompany such a job as this.

These men deserve and should be given much credit for their untiring effort in making our athletic program as outstanding and successful as it is.

It's Love, Love, Love

This year's tennis matches were well played for the team did a fine job and was not as bad as the standings look. Although they won no matches, a number of individual sets were captured. The team consisted of Bill Yahne, captain; Ellis Shookman; Jerry Sullivan; Jack Perfect; and Norman Horne. Elkhart, Goshen, Michigan City, South Bend Riley, South Bend Central, LaPorte, South Bend John Adams, and Mishawaka were the team's eight opponents in the Northeastern Indiana Conference. A spring schedule has been planned for this year with the city schools, chiefly South Side and Concordia, as opposition. The team, under the guidance and assistance of Mr. Noel Whittern, hoped to get at least a month of good hard practice in before these matches began.

The various action shots on this page were taken at the noon basketball league games. These games were under the direction of Mr. Don Kemp. In the upper left picture, DeWayne Keller watches as Marlo Cramer and a pair of hands make an attempt to seize the ball. Dick Sivits takes a free shot at the charity lane as Hershell Keller watches him closely. Stan Swinton makes a mad dash with the ball to try to get away from his opponents, DeWayne Keller, Hershell Keller, and Ray Giant.

Pictured above in the circle are the two capable advisers of G.A.A., Miss Ruth Carroll and Miss Margaret Spiegel. In the picture at left below are, first row, Hunter and Greim. Second row, Ginzel, Cutler, Essex, Sivits. Back row, Detwiler, Stultz, Carpenter, Jones. Grouped together in the picture at the right are the letter winners. Front row, Strait, Neal, Poling. Second row, Rosenberger, Fuhrman, Ball, N. Fiebig, B. Fiebig. Back row, Beach, Schoff, Stellhorn, Chaney, Manor, Wyss, Meyer.

Pep, vigor, and vitality plus physically fit women—this is the key phrase of North Side's Girls' Athletic Association.

This group, under the guidance of Miss Margaret Spiegel and Miss Ruth Carroll, boasts girls outstanding in three qualities, health, sportsmanship, and loyalty.

G.A.A. events follow two patterns, sports activities and social events. This year has seen a tennis tournament, volleyball and basketball tilts, archery skill development, tumbling, softball, and track. In addition, rhythmic swimming and life saving have been stressed in the club's athletic program.

This year's social calendar was filled with many red letter days. November 19 saw the colorful G.A.A. Vod-Vil. This was followed by the club's annual potluck and initiation service on January 23, and the finale of the year, the colorful spring banquet.

to the Ball Game

Awards are given by the G.A.A. to sports-minded girls who receive points in after school practices in the various sports. The blocked "N", the club's highest award, is given when 1,000 points have been earned. An emblem is given when 600 points have been obtained.

Officers forming the executive committee of this club are president, Peg Whonsetler; vice-president, Mary Ann Snyder; secretary, Jerry Schweizer; point recorder, DeLoris Beucler; junior representative, Marilyn Bilcer; and sophomore representative, Carol Schuelke.

Although it requires hard work and time, the girls have fun in their athletic activities.

Such a complete sports program as offered by this club plays a great role in producing healthy Americans and impresses on young people's minds the rules of fair play, good sportsmanship, and a feeling of companionship so important for good citizenship.

In the above circle are the officers of G.A.A. Seated, Snyder and Whonsetler. Standing, Beucler, Bilcer, Schuelke, and Schweizer. In the left picture below are Liggett, Bowser and S. Kroemer. Second row, Eagelson, Drewett, Kissinger, and C. Kroemer. Third row, Sterling, Mounsey, Farr, Lehman, Hershberger, Trim, and Davenport. Fourth row, Kaylor, Krause, Straub, and Landis. In the right picture, first row, are Alexander, Henry, Ramp, and Young. Second row, Hatch, Wall, Ries, Wood, and Traster. Third row, Terry, Harris, Bulmahn, Johnson, and Gettfried.

Peg Whonsetler, Carol Schuleke, De-Loris Beucler, Carolyn Neal, and Carolyn Meek, compete in an after school game.

Another contest shows Jean Doege and Nancy Rosenberger battling under the basket.

Skill at shuffleboard is displayed by Diane Schaefer, Janet Loveless and Anne Clonch.

In the bottom row, Dotty Ziegler and Marilyn Mounsey prove themselves masters at table tennis.

The tepee's pool boasts such mermaids as Marilyn Barker, Barbara Weckesser, Norma Meyer, Barbara Mertz, and Betty Beebe shown as they await their diving turns. They are no doubt practicing for the coming summer.

In the middle right picture Nancy Fiebig and Betty Schoaff guard Judy Sterling in a heated court tilt.

Janet Loveless, Sharon Bowser, and Nancy Rosenberger rebound for the ball in another basketball game. Such struggles are frequently seen in the squaw's gym classes.

Stand Up

At the right, Patty Payne, Shirley Summers, Karen Harper, and Sharon Cress pin roses on the basketball team and coaches at Sectional time.

The bottom row, left picture, shows Joan Pickens, Mary Lou Bobilya, and Patty Payne ready for the kick-off at the football pep meeting.

and Cheer

Jeanette Buechner, Sally Zimmerman, Alice Kling and Sharon Meek share front row seats at a pep meeting. The yell leaders displaying their vigor and vim are Evelyn Burgess, JoLoyce Hunter, Sharon Bowser, Keith Hensler, and Bob Heyn. Those participating in the heated tilt are Mr. Motz, Tom Jackson, Froncie Gutman, Mr. Kemp, Bob Winefer, Mr. Traster, and Ronnie Allen. Miss Withers, referee, anxiously watches for fouls. In the bottom row the twirlers entertain with their "Turkey in the Straw" number. At right are the queen and her court, chosen for the Sectionals, Patty Payne, Sharon Cress, Sandra Erikson, Inez Frances, Karen Harper, and Shirley Summers. Standing are Earl Peters and Ralph Buhr.

Merrily, We Roll Along

In the middle row, four charming misses, Smith, Schubert, Shreve and Nicolet return for that dreaded sixth period after a fifth hour spree. Jims, Mackey, Hall, and Platt rest on the lawn fifth period. Jim Platt has a nice smile for the photographer. Other fifth perioders are Jerry Smith and Jerry Hyser, looking rather serious.

What's this! Patty Strait is presenting Dave Overmyer with his reward for the first correct answer in the Northerner circulation contest.

The two miners, grime besmudged, are Patty Payne and Sandy Erekson, prophets at the senior banquet.

On this page, Kenny Brown Chuck Hoemig and Jerry Segal perform for their public. It looks as if the Northerner is soon going to press; Joan Menge, Sharon Dean, Maxine Stephan, and Archie Adams do their journalistic duties.

The middle row boasts class representatives answering to the names of Dave and Beverly; the Daves are Hawthorne, Baxter, Overmyer and Gunn; and young misses, Beverly Glasa, Beverly Schulz, Beverly Henry, and Beverly Crabill.
